

A real model forges the executor under self-report; verification stops it

